CSF Mercer Events

CSF Mercer will be kicking off the 2010-2011 school year this weekend! The students will be helping with freshman move-in, hosting a Back-to-School dinner on Saturday, August 21, and participating in Bear Fair, a campus life event, on Monday, August 23. This fall CSF Mercer will be studying Here and Now by Henri Nouwen.

The group meets on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. at Jittery Joe's, a coffee shop near the Mercer campus. If you know students who might be interested in participating in CSF this year, or for more information, please contact Aimee Day at csfmercer@cbfga.org or 478-742-1191, ext. 26.

FriendsAddie Davis Award Winners

Each year Baptist Women in Ministry presents two Addie Davis awards: one for Outstanding Leadership in Pastoral Ministry and one for Excellence in Preaching. Nominations for the awards are collected from seminaries and divinity schools, and this year two separate committees worked independently to select the top nominee in each category.

Gwen Brown is the winner of the Outstanding Pastoral Ministry award. Gwen was given the award for her work in assisting food and homeless ministries with a number of Baptist churches, collecting food and water for earthquake survivors in Haiti, and tutoring and mentoring students in neighborhood schools. Gwen serves as pastor at Cornerstone Church, a Cooperative Baptist Fellowship church in Grayson, founded in 2005 by Gwen and her husband, Charles.

The winner of the Excellence in Preaching award is Karen Hatcher, who is known to her friends as Kam. Kam is a student at Baptist Theological Seminary in Richmond and will graduate next May. Her winning sermon was titled A Match Made in Heaven, based on the story of Jacob's wrestling match in Genesis 22. For more information on the Addie Davis Award, visit <http://www.bwim.info/>.
